“ I was glad to have Andrew in my life as his classmate, even if I did not know him personally I perceived him as a hard-working individual who sought out to pursue his passions and bring good fortune with them. I never saw him much anymore because of him going virtual, but a week before the crash my mother and I saw him and his grandmother entering Pauls Valley Walmart. I didn't say too much other than asking him how MATC was and complimenting his tattoos...but I almost wish I had said a little more. I'll miss you Andrew. I'm sure many things will happen this year in your honor as we graduate this year without you. You will not be forgotten.

“ When I first met Andrew I was in freds room playing the game with him when he came in threw a piece of bologna at Fred and ran away, ever since that day Everytime I went to freds he would always be doing something stupid whether that be him messing with Fred or me or max. He treated us like family. And to us he was, when he got his car he would do these crazy drifts, he used to drive so fast not even the reaper could catch him, only reason they caught him this time is because he wasn't driving. Drive fast in heaven Andrew, Drive fast.

“ I had Andrew in class for both English and Aeronautics. He made any conversation interesting and was so insightful. His heart was so kind and he had such compassion! He was such a sweet kid.
