“ I am so thankful for all of my family and friends to help me get through this difficult loss. I have will never forget all the blessings I have recieved from living in a great place, it will always be called home. My Mom was the most wonderful woman who was my best friend. I never thought this day would come, I am thankful that she is not suffering anymore but I am a little selfish, I just want to hear her voice, hear her silly laugh. I want to tell her I love her more than anything and hope My girls will feel the same to me. I never wanted to disappoint her and only wanted her to be proud of me. I will treasure all of our great memories and I will see her again and then I can crawl in her lap and make up for the lost time we had. Love and miss her always.

“ Karen - I am so sorry to hear about your Mom. I remember loving her fun-loving spirit so much. She is no longer in pain and is being welcomed into Heaven. There is no substitution for the love we experience from our Mothers and I pray that you girls will find comfort in knowing she loved you all so much! I pray that God will wrap his arms around you all and hold you close and give you some kind of comfort through this very difficult time. None of us will ever be prepared to lose our parents!
