“ What a beautiful woman you are temporarily separated from! There is no way that you can stop yourselves from missing her, but take peace in knowing where she is now and the joy that she is feeling! Until you see her again, enjoy your memories, I know that you have SO many to chose from and laugh every chance that you get! As you well know, life is just way to precious and too short to miss out on any of the joys that it has to offer. I love you ALL!

“ Angie, IWe are so sorry to have just seen your mothers passing. We are in a bit of a shock. I truely hope you know that she is so much better off with God now and He is the one and only that will get you passed the next few months. We think of you and her often and always asked about her when we seen you. If there is anything we can do for you just let us know. IWe are here even if it is a shoulder to cry on or a ear to just listen. But remember you can talk to God the same way and he is even better at it then we are. We love you
