“ Patsy, Steve, and Roger...my first thoughts of Ulys go back to little league baseball around 1965 when the Ford family first moved to Lindsay. Ulys was always an encourager, and could offer suggestions that were easy to swallow; I don't feel he believed in forced feeding. Like my dad and so many of the old timers that have now gone on, their word was their bond. A loan officer's contract to his generation would consist of one page, and one sentence that would read: I (name)agree to pay (lender's name) X amount of dollars by (date)...then it would be signed by someone like Ulys, and the payments would be made in a timely fashion until the loan was paid in full...usually early. When I helped Larry Jackson add on the back of the house, Uly always appreciated our skills, and we appreciated him and Patsy. As a peaceful man, it's good to hear that he left here peacefully as well. Wishing the family God's healing, but also the ability to celebrate a life well lived. God Bless!
